MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR

Once again our season is coming to a quick closure and everyone seems to be working diligently to get the last system installed before the freeze up begins. From all accounts, this was a busy year for construction and hopefully everyone had a successful year.

WWNS has had a busy year starting with the regional meetings in January and February, followed by a very successful Septic Pumping Expo and Annual General Meeting. The AGM is always well attended and the Expo continues to grow each year. Suggestions for presenters or content are always welcome.

Registration for 2020 Regional meetings is included with this newsletter. WWNS will again be teleconferencing meetings in HRM, Truro and Bridgewater on Jan 27 this coming year and we are hopeful that the Internet is more cooperative this time around. Feedback would be appreciated from anyone attending one of these meetings.

Sloping sand filters have become the most commonly installed on-site system in Nova Scotia and developing selection tables for sloping sand filter has been discussed for a number of years. WWNS has asked Nova Scotia Environment (NSE) to make this a priority. Nova Scotia Environment is currently looking at options for system selection and will provide an update at the regional sessions.

WWNS has raised concerns regarding inspections of on-site systems being completed by people who may lack the training and experience to complete a thorough and accurate inspection. WWNS and Nova Scotia Environment are currently working on a Best Practices document that will identify the minimum requirements of a good system inspection.

As Christmas is fast approaching, which also signals the closure of another construction season, I would like to wish all of you and your families a very Merry Christmas and hope that you all have a very safe and prosperous New Year!

Eric Morse, P.Eng., NSLS.
Chairman, WWNS

To avoid retaking the training, Qualified Persons must have participated in the PDP program and accumulated a minimum of 100 professional development points. Financing available soon to Nova Scotian's to improve septic systems

The Department of Municipal Affairs has implemented changes that give Municipalities the authority to offer financing to Nova Scotians to improve septic systems.

Amendments to the Municipal Government Act and the Halifax Regional Municipality Charter will allow all municipalities to offer loans to homeowners in their area who need to install or replace their septic systems. Residents will be able to repay their loan through their property taxes.

This is similar to what was already in place to help replace wells. You can read more about it here:

Provincial On-site System Cost Study

Nova Scotia Environment initiated an on-site cost review study. Some of you may have been contacted to provide information to help complete this work. Results show that the cost to construct a system in Nova Scotia is consistent with or less than other jurisdictions in Canada. The report and its recommendations will be discussed further in the upcoming WWNS regional sessions.
